Adding the borders

1st border - Measure the quilt length. Join the 2 ½" wide blue strips to create the length you need. Make two of these strips. Sew a strip to each side, press towards the blue

Measure the quilt width and follow step one. Sew a strip to the top and bottom, press towards the blue

Outer border – Measure the quilt length. Join the 6 ½" wide yellow print strips to create the length you need. Make two of these strips. Sew a strip to each side, press towards the yellow print

Measure the quilt width and follow step one . Sew a strip to the top and bottom, press towards the yellow print

Finishing

Press the whole quilt top again and make sure there are no 'lumpy' joins, this makes it easier to quilt.

Sandwich the quilt layers – backing (right side down), then the wadding and quilt top (right side up)

Baste and quilt as desired. I quilted the original with a loopy all over pattern and included a few cute little bumble bees .....

Trim the backing and batting back to ¼" bigger all round.

Prepare the binding by joining the 2 ½" strips together using a mitred seam to make one long piece. Press in half lengthwise and sew – using your walking foot – to the right side of the quilt top aligning with the raw edges. Follow the diagrams to make mitred corners.

Trim away the excess batting and backing. I like to leave it a fraction wider than the quilt top so that the binding is full.

Turn the binding to the back and hand sew in place.

Don't forget to sew a label on your quilt!
